President's Letter

Annakarina Aguila, President

Dear Class of 2015,

It has been a pleasure being your Class President. I can honestly say being in a class full of such movers and shakers inspired me as a student. Within the small family we made as the Business, Management, and Finance School we had our athletes, academic stars, and the ones who could always keep us smiling; this made for the type of atmosphere where anyone would feel welcomed. As we move along in our lives we cannot forget the place where we created such a family and changed the dynamics of what a typical high school should be. The greatest part to our bond would be the hardworking teachers who dedicated their time and energy towards our education. We learned to really reach for our goals because we had these teachers who believed in us. Being able to come after school or even on a Saturday to receive help from a teacher is just one example proving how much they believed in our success, and for that we are thankful.

In this book you will find just that; you will find the moments we captured as a family and the moments when teachers put their best foot forward for our future. Many times as we go on in life it is hard to remember what it feels like to be a high school student, but hopefully as we linger through these pages we will feel the curiosity and joy we once carried as a Lancer.

P.S Special thanks to the wonderful group of people who worked endlessly to put this "memoir" together

Sincerely,

Annakarina M. Aguila

Remember What Is Most Important

Remember that reaching your destination is only part of living. Enjoying the journey is the other.
Remember that no one person in life can make you happy.
True happiness comes for within.
Remember that words are very powerful, and they stay around forever, so always make sure that what you say counts.
Remember that no one has all the answers to life. Life is an adventure that must be enjoyed to the fullest.
Remember that is today seems dark, tomorrow will always be brighter. Sometimes we need to get lost in the darkness before we can fully appreciate the light of our path.
Remember to appreciate the moment you are in. When you live in the past or for the future, you miss everything in between, and you will have never truly lived.
Remember that change is good thing. When you learn new things and take on new challenges, you expand your mind and become a better person for it.
Remember that if you love someone, tell them. Life is short and it moves very quickly. Loving someone openly gives purpose and meaning to your days.
Remember to stop and take a breath. Life is not a race to be won. The only way to enjoy all of it is one moment at a time.

BMF Class of 2015!
Best of Luck in this New Chapter of Your Life
Love,
Mrs. O'Donnell
Senior Class Advisor

Sean McCarthy, Principal

Class of 2015,

As you forge ahead in your lives, always remember the lessons you have learned here in BMF. Those of us that are slightly older know that life will have it's inevitable twists and turns and there will be times in your life that you are tested and challenged but rest assured that you have been given a solid foundation.

You have been a fantastic class and your academic performance is a major reason why BMF has made such significant strides as a school. You have served as role models and mentors to all of the classes that have come after you and that legacy of good determination will continue for the years ahead.

I have been very fortunate to have served as your principal and consider myself better for having known you and watch your growth over the last two years. Continue to strive for better in everything you do, continue to keep an eye toward the future and always remember your roots.

Good luck and continue to make us proud.

Mr. McCarthy
